

ABOUT

ONE OF THE OLDEST, MOST EXPERIENCED, AND MOST TRUSTED LAW FIRMS ON THE WEST COAST.

Established in 1893, Oles Morrison Rinker & Baker LLP is one of the most trusted construction and federal government contracts law firms on the West Coast. With attorneys practicing in offices located in California and Washington, we have been providing legal counsel to public and private companies in all phases of construction law and government contracting law since the 1930s. Our attorneys play integral roles on a wide range of leading infrastructure projects, transportation systems and real estate developments both within the United States and Internationally. In addition to our primary practice areas of construction and government contracts, our clients look to us and our seasoned legal counsel for advice pertaining to commercial litigation, business litigation, and real estate litigation.

Our team includes a former Commissioner on the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals, the president of the American College of Construction Lawyers, and several former contractors giving us unique insight and experience in the industry of public and private contracting. We offer senior level counsel at every stage of a complex project from inception and design to completion and commissioning. We strive for cost-effective and creative solutions to problems. Most importantly, we understand our clients' businesses and are committed to finding legal solutions that optimize their business goals.

We are passionate about what we do, have deep roots in the construction industry and take great pride in our work. We are committed to the industries in which we work and to the communities where we live and practice. We believe in being a true partner to our clients.
